“We ought so to live that the days, hours and moments of the year may form a crown made up of good works, which we may offer to God. Our forgetfulness of Him Who is our last end, in almost all that we do, calls for a sacrifice of compunction at the close of the year; but this cannot be perfect or acceptable to God, unless we sincerely devote our whole hearts and lives to His holy love for the time to come.”

~ from Butler’s Lives of the Saints
